2. [REDACTED] and I, however, agree that the briefing of these individuals should await the preparation of an instruction on briefing which [REDACTED] will provide you in the very near future. 3. In saying the foregoing, I am fully aware that I agreed on Friday, 3 April, that you should proceed to brief two people on the list who were in town at that time. This is entirely in order.

4. The foregoing concurrence is based on the understanding that these billets will be accounted for against those allocated to the Air Force in paragraph 9 of my memorandum to the Deputy Director (Plans) of 16 January 1959 (COR-0314). It is hoped that we can hold the number of these billets that need to be activated to a minimum pending the actual receipt of material.
